

Oral Nutritional Supplements (ONS) Preferred Products List for Adults

- Products listed below in green or amber may be initiated in primary care after 'MUST' screening and appropriate first line 'Food First' treatment in line with the 'Nutrition Support Care Pathway'.
- The products listed in red overleaf should only be prescribed following assessment/recommendation by a dietitian.
- Please seek advice from a dietitian before prescribing ONS if the patient is prescribed thickener following a speech and language therapist assessment, as the products below may not be suitable.

FIRST LINE OPTION: Powdered milkshake-style ONS

Prescribe if patient able to prepare this product (mix powder with whole/full fat milk) or has the support of relatives/carers to do so, otherwise consider second line options. Recommended Dose: TWO sachets daily

Product Name	Flavours	Presentation	Calories /serving	Protein /serving	Cost /serving	Monthly BD Volume

NB Products clinically lactose free but contain milk protein. Not suitable as a sole source of nutrition. Use with caution in patients with diabetes.

The products above should be safe and suitable for most patients to use, but please refer to BNF, manufacturer's information or dietitian for advice if the patient is following a restricted diet or has complex nutritional needs. Prices based on June 2019 MIMS data.

NOT ROUTINELY RECOMMENDED PRODUCTS: FOR DIETITIAN INITIATION ONLY

The products below should only be prescribed in primary care after nutritional assessment and recommendation by a registered dietitian. As this list is not exhaustive, dietitians may request other ONS (including disease-specific products) which may be prescribed if no suitable equivalent and if clinically justified in the prescription request.

* This product is a powder that requires mixing with whole/full fat milk so ensure that the patient is able to prepare the product or has the support of a relative/carer to do so before prescribing.

<sup>**</sup> Consider other low volume products before prescribing the 'Mini' (125ml) version of this product as it is not as cost effective in comparison
